18th Annual Alumni Symposium

April 27-28, 2007

Memory, Memoir, and Madeleines: Remembering Things Past

The Pomona College 18th Annual Alumni Symposium will, over the course of two days, offer participants an opportunity to test and plumb their own memories while examining the topic of human memory from a variety of perspectives, ranging from the scientific to the artistic to the practical. In conversation with engaged alumni and faculty, participants will explore topics with great relevance to their own lives.

Friday, April 27, 2007

9:15 a.m. Symposium Welcome and Introduction

Rose Hills Theatre, Lower Level, Smith Campus Center

GARY KATES

Vice President for Academic Affairs and Dean, Pomona College

9:30 a.m. Emotion and Cognition: How Feelings Affect Attention, Memory and Language

Rose Hills Theatre, Lower Level, Smith Campus Center

DEBORAH BURKE

Professor of Linguistics and Cognitive Science and Psychology, Pomona College, is an expert in the "tip-of-the-tongue" phenomenon and role of language and memory. She teaches a seminar on the impact of emotions on memory and has long studied how we remember and why we forget.

10:30 a.m. Recalling the Humanities

Rose Hills Theatre, Lower Level, Smith Campus Center

Time and Memory in Virginia Woolf's Mrs. Dalloway and Toni Morrison's Beloved

JEAN MURDY WYATT '61

Professor of English and Comparative Literary Studies, Occidental College, will explore the roles of memory and time in modern literature and the tendency to live the past in the present. She will explore the relationship between a person's attitude toward memory and the ability to live fruitfully in regard to time's passing.

Scents of Memory — Memory of Scents (What Are We Talking About When We Talk About Smells?)

HANS RINDISBACHER

Associate Professor of German, Pomona College, has research interests focusing on the literary, cultural, historical and social aspects of the German-speaking world as well as olfaction in the arts and sciences. His presentation will include pointers for developing olfactory sensitivities and a classification system by which to order scent.

Introducer – CATHERINE PORTER '62

Professor emerita of French at Cornell University and at SUNY, Cortland, and second vice-president of the Modern Language Association (MLA).

1:30 p.m. Memory as Power: Lessons from the Recovered Memory Controversy

Rose Hills Theatre, Lower Level, Smith Campus Center

JOHN BEAHRS '62

Professor Emeritus of Psychiatry, The Oregon Health and Science University, served as chair of the Task Force on Child Sex Abuse and Adult Recovered Memory. Among his many interests are the adaptive functions of memory, alterations of truth by suggestion and recent "trauma wars."

Introducer/Moderator – WILLIAM BANKS

Professor of Psychology, Pomona College, a cognitive psychologist, is the recipient of numerous awards and grants. He was co-editor of The Recovered Memory/False Memory Debate (1986), a work focusing on scientific aspects of the memory controversy.

2:30 p.m. Ancient Egyptians and Early French Photographers: Views of Time and Memory

Rose Hills Theatre, Lower Level, Smith Campus Center

KATHLEEN STEWART HOWE

Director of the Pomona College Museum of Art and Professor of Art History, Pomona College, has among her specialty fields 19th-century photography and the visual culture of travel and exploration. She is currently at work on the complex interactions among photography, archaeology and philology in the mid-19th century.

CHRISTINE LILYQUIST '62

Lila A. Wallace Research Curator in Egyptology at The Metropolitan Museum of Art. As curator of the Egyptian art department, she supervised the 11-year-long reinstallation of the museum's collection of ancient Egyptian art and artifacts. She has a strong interest in the material remains that reveal relations between Egypt and her neighbors.

Introducer – GEORGE GORSE

Professor of Art History, Pomona College

3:30 p.m. The Practical Memoirist: Notes on Taking Notes on Your Own Life

Rose Hills Theatre, Lower Level, Smith Campus Center

VERLYN KLINKENBORG '74

Visiting Writer in Residence, Pomona College, has been a successful recorder of things ordinary and often overlooked. His gifts of observation invoke the reader to look anew, to recognize how fragmentary our knowledge of the past is, and to point us to "the authority of the ordinary." He notes that memoirists often battle with confession versus concealment and struggle to overcome certain "burdens of obligation."

Introducer – KYLA TOMPKINS

Assistant Professor of English and Gender & Women's Studies, Pomona College

4:30 p.m. Remembering Pomona: Strolling Down College Avenue by Way of Memory Lane

Rose Hills Theatre, Lower Level, Smith Campus Center

VERNE ORR '37

Former Secretary of the Air Force, retired businessman, and graduate school dean, will lead a session of shared memories about Pomona's past, of traditions that have begun and ended, and of indelible impressions that stand out in the minds of generations of Sagehens.

Introducer – CATHERINE TROYER ROSE '85

President, Pomona College Alumni Association

Saturday, April 28, 2007

10:30 a.m. Memory and the Movies

Edmunds Ballroom, Main Level, Smith Campus Center

DAVID WARD '67

Director and award-winning screenwriter of such films as The Sting, Major League and Sleepless in Seattle, will share personal memories about movies and their evocative power. He will lead a discussion exploring some of the ways that cinema affects viewers' memory and invokes spontaneous recollection. A film clip of David's movies will be shown.

Introducer – DAVID W. OXTOBY

President, Pomona College

1:30 p.m. You MUST Remember This!: Passwords in Contemporary Computer Culture

Rose Hills Theatre, Lower Level, Smith Campus Center

JEREMY DOUGLASS '99

Ph.D. candidate, University of California, Santa Barbara, is studying the digital humanities and new media studies. He will explore how we choose and remember passwords, how networked computers serve as vast external memory systems with passwords the irreducible human element to be remembered, and how the password serves as our contemporary shibboleth.

Introducer – PAUL SAINT-AMOUR

Associate Professor of English, Pomona College

Travel with Pomona College

See the world with Pomona College! All trips are led by a Pomona College faculty member. Alumni, parents and friends of the College are welcome on all of our tours.

UMBRIA WALKING TOUR with Professor of History Ken Wolf
May 22-June 4, 2008
Follow in the footsteps of Saint Francis of Assisi, visiting the convents and monasteries he founded along the Tiber Valley and seeing the villages of Cortona, Citta di Castello, San Sepolcro, Perugia, San Luca, Norcia, Todi and Orvieto.

GALAPAGOS ISLANDS CRUISE with Professor of Biology Jonathan Wright
June 20-29, 2008
Cruise in comfort where Darwin sailed, visiting pristine islands that are home to some of the world's most exotic species of animals. Enjoy snorkeling, kayaking and hiking on this adventure that is suitable for all ages.

FUTURE TRIPS:
Peru with Anthropology Professor Ralph Bolton '61
Vietnam with Sociology & Asian American Studies Professor Hung Cam Thai

Kudos and Thanks!

Thank you to the more than 6,000 alumni who have already contributed to the Annual Fund so far this year—and of those, the 1,700 alumni in reunion who have contributed to their class giving campaigns for Reunion 2007! Every contribution and the generosity of every donor plays a part in Pomona's continued achievement in educational excellence. Reunion classes have raised more than $1 million dollars to date—just imagine how much that means in the lives of today's students, many of whom are receiving national and international recognition for their scholarship and leadership potential as they depart Pomona's gates. Kudos to the next generation of Pomona graduates, and thank you to those who helped make their dreams possible.

Making a Contribution

If you would like to make a gift to Pomona this weekend, please visit the Annual Fund tent on Marston Quad on Saturday of Alumni Weekend. The Office of Annual Giving is also available for questions and to take donations at (888) 736-9425.

For information regarding capital and deferred giving to the College, please call the Trust and Estates Office at (800) 761-9899.
